

USING HYBRID INSTRUCTION TO INCREASE THE PARTICIPATION OF WOMEN AND ADULT LEARNERS IN DIESEL TECHNOLOGY

Wallace State Community College has created a Diesel Technology program that is more accessible, meets industry needs better, and can be completed more expediently than ever before, and it is called Diesel by Distance.

Notable Methods

- Hybrid instruction
- 100% online theory
- 46 virtual reality simulations tied to NATEF standards embedded in program for skills practice
- Flexible in-person lab schedules - Each student receives a customized lab-schedule to fit their needs.
- FREE Short-Term Training Bootcamps.
- Financial Aid & Scholarships available.
- WBL opportunities to earn & learn.
- Targeted Marketing & Recruiting

Notable Impacts

- Fall 2020 there were 31 students. All were white males, two were adult learners.
- Since Summer 2021, we have served 18 females.
- We have served an additional 60 adult learners (25+ years old). Of the 60, 12 were females and 11 were African-American.
- Fall 2023 - we are currently serving 62 students; 45 credited and 17 workforce.
 - 43.5% are adult learners
 - 11.3% is made up by females
 - 19.4% is made up of other ethnic background, other than white

More info. contact Anna.Parrish@wallacestate.edu, 256.352.8356

This work was supported by The National Science Foundation under ATE Grant DUE #2100297 in the amount of $279,336 awarded to Wallace State Community College-Hanceville.

Any opinions, findings, and conclusions or recommendations expressed in this material are those of the author(s) and do not necessarily reflect the views of the National Science Foundation.